MRS. SKEELS RELEASED

NINE YEARS FOR BANK THEFT

Brighton Trust Co. Official Sentenced After Sharp Arraignment of Lax Audit Methods

Charging that a loose method of examination by both the national and State bank examiners had permitted his stealing, Luther R. Hanson, assistant treasurer of the Market Trust Company, Brighton, completed a remarkable plea to Judge Aiken in the Superior Court today.

Following his accounting of the method he employed to steal $171,000 from the bank, Hanson was sentenced to State prison for not less than nine nor more than ten years.

(By Mr. Pelletier.) Perhaps, Mr. Hanson, you might begin by telling His Honor how long you have been at this bank? A—I have been at the bank seventeen years.

Q—This was originally a national bank? A—A national bank.

Q—It then became a trust company? A—A trust company in 1913.

Q—When did you first begin to take money from the bank? A—This started, I should say, ten or eleven years ago.

SMALL THEFTS AT FIRST.

Q—To what extent in the beginning? A—Very small; it was a matter first of my own securities owned outright, pledged as margin, and, of course, went away in the usual way, and then just a small amount that hung for many years.

Q—And afterwards did you sort of make a combination with someone else to invest for you? A—Yes, sir; there was always a combination.

Q—With whom was the combination? How was it done? Perhaps that is the better way, if you will tell His Honor. A—Why, simply a man

GIRL RAFFLES IN COURT ON MORE CHARGES

Three college girls who have joined the already long list of complainants, victims of a girl "Raffles." Left to right: Mildred Frolio and Edith Wilbraham, Simmons College, and Leonata Ryan, Boston University.

Last Saturday she appeared in the same court on six other charges, with no representation, and was held to appear today in $5,000 bonds. Today this was raised another $1,000.

The courtroom was crowded with girl students from various colleges, also members of the faculties. Miss Norris wore a valuable raccoon coat.

Chief Kingsbury of Wellesley appeared with a warrant charging larceny. Inspector Hooley of Arlington had a warrant charging her with larceny from Marcellite Academy. A third warrant, from the Central Court, charges larceny in four counts, to the amount of $178.

The new complaints today charged Miss Norris with the larceny of a dress from Leona Ivers of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital; breaking and entering the Deaconness Hospital Nurses' Home, and larceny of property, of Gertrude Richardson; breaking and entering and larceny of property of Mary Leydon, valued at $100, and $4 in money from Mary Trophy; on Dec. 27, larceny of $200 worth of property of Grace Diehl of the Simmons College, and the larceny of jewelry valued at $250, the property of Alfiana Davis, of No. 28 Fenway road.

ARRAIGNED AS THE SLAYER OF POLICEMAN

Joseph Colonna, chauffeur of the automobile in which three thugs robbed one of whom fired the shot killing Patrolman Charles F. Deininger, was taken into the Chelsea Court today to answer to a murder charge. The arraignment was perfunctory, a continuance being ordered.

The investigators have not yet decided the status of others taken into custody today. This far Colonna is the only member of the party to admit that he was near the vicinity of the crime in Chelsea. He has been subjected to a rigorous questioning, but nothing has yet been given out by the police regarding his story.

Auldis Turner of No. 150 Bird street, Dorchester, was taken into custody today. Both Auldis Turner and his brother, Paul, were ques-

Miss Mabel E. Norris, the "girl raffler," believed to be Ethel Hughes, was in Roxbury Court today before Judge Hayden, on six new complaints. Through her attorney, Edorence Sullivan, she pleaded not guilty and was held in $6,000.

18-YEAR-OLD GIRL ACCUSED OF COAT THEFT

Eighteen-year-old Lucy McLellan of Newton Upper Falls appeared in the role of a feminine Raffler in the Newton Court today, where she was charged with the larceny of a raccoon coat from Newton Technical High School. She pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty and placed on probation until June 15. The girl and her mother, who accompanied her to court, were expeditiously dressed.

According to evidence, Principal E. A. Adams of the Classical High School noticed the girl, a stranger to him, in the coat room outside Room 16. She was arrayed in a raccoon coat, and was bent over, strapping a bag. He questioned her, and she told conflicting stories.

He took her to the principal's office and notified the girls of Room 16 to search their belongings and report whether anything was missing. The owner of the fur coat reported its loss and later identified it on Miss McLellan.

INDICTED NURSE IS ILL

Taken to Andover Home of Fiance, Who Has Been Her Staunch Defender

Lawrence, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Bessie May Skeels, the Andover nurse charged with two murders, was today released in $1,000 bail by Judge Thayer of the Superior Court.

Owing to the ill health of the accused, her trial is indefinitely postponed.

Mrs. Skeels is under indictment for the alleged poisoning of Miss Florence M. Gay of Andover, a patient, whom Mrs. Skeels nursed, and who died December 13, 1917; and for the alleged poisoning of her brother, Alfred Willing of Bayonne, N. J. She has been under suspicion also of deaths of several other relatives; her father and mother, and Mrs. Albert Wilkins, her sister-in-law. Both indictments were brought after the bodies of the alleged victims had been exhumed and autopsies performed.

Mrs. Skeels' counsel, Attorney Daniel J. Daley of Boston, during the past day or two has held conferences with Attorney-General Henry C. Attwill, Chief Justice John A. Aiken of the Superior Court, and District Attorney Henry Wells of Essex County, regarding the prisoner's release.

Bail was furnished by Charles A. Salisbury, probation officer. Mrs. Skeels was taken to Andover to the home of Alfred Lundgren, her fiance. Lundgren has remained loyal to Mrs. Skeels and her staunch defender throughout.

STATE SENATE FAVORS IRISH INDEPENDENCE

Resolutions in favor of Irish independence were adopted today in the Senate by a vote of 27 to 6 on roll call. The only dissenter against adoption was Senator Loring, who objected on the grounds that the resolutions would not do anything to aid the Irish cause. Senator Loring said he was an ardent admirer of the Irish. The resolutions will come up in the House next week.

DORCHESTER WOMAN BURNED IN EXPLOSION

Mrs. D. H. Brackett of No. 1897 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, was seriously burned about the hands and face when an oil stove exploded in her kitchen today, setting fire to her dress. The timely arrival of District Chief Allan Macdonald and Engine 46 undoubtedly saved Mrs. Brackett's life as she had lost consciousness. When discovered by the firemen her dress was still burning.

Text of Covenant of League of Nations

Paris, Feb. 14.—Following is the text of the covenant of the League of Nations, as submitted by President Wilson to the plenary peace commission today:

PREAMBLE.

In order to promote international co-operation and to secure international peace and security by the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war, by the prescription of open, just and honorable relations between nations, by the firm establishment of the understandings of international law as to the actual role of conduct among governments, and by the maintenance of justice and a scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations in the dealings of organized people with one another, the powers signatory to this covenant adopt this constitution of the League of Nations.

ARTICLE I.

The action of the high contracting parties under the terms of this covenant shall be effected through the instrumentality of meeting of a body of delegates representing the high contracting parties, of meetings at more frequent intervals of an executive council, and of a permanent international secretariat to be established at the seat of the league.

ARTICLE II.

Meetings of the body of delegates shall be held at stated intervals and from time to time as occasion may require for the purpose of dealing with matters within the sphere of action of the league. Meetings of the body of delegates shall be held at the seat of the league or at such other place as may be found convenient, and shall consist of representatives of the high contracting parties. Each of the high contracting parties shall have one vote, but may have not more than three representatives.

ARTICLE III.

The executive council shall consist of representatives of the United States of America, the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, together with representatives of four other States, members of the league. The selection of these four States shall be made by the body of delegates on such

THREAT TO CALL GENERAL STRIKE

By JOHN F. GAVIN.

Lawrence, Feb. 14.—Textile workers on strike here today threatened to call a general strike of all unorganized textile operatives in New England. Plans for such a strike were discussed at a meeting of the general strike committee. The threat was regarded by those opposed to the strike as a desperate eleventh-hour rally to defy the American Federation of Labor, under which many mill operatives are organized.

It was pointed out that the striking textile workers have no authority to call a general strike.

It was decided at the meeting also to call a general strike of all mill operatives, including others than textile workers. Repudiation of the terms for a forty-eight-hour week obtained by the A. F. of L. is the keynote of the strikers' utterances.

They announced today that "when the strike is won" they will demand pay for all the time they have been out.

WAKEFIELD TO VOTE ON BECOMING A CITY

Wakefield, Feb. 14.—In the Wakefield town warrant, completed today, is an article calling for the appointment of a committee to petition the Legislature for a charter for a city government. Another article calls for an appropriation of $500,000 to build a high school on the Wakefield estate. A request is also made for a committee of town officers to investigate the municipal lighting plant, and report to the town meeting in 1920 the advisability of selling.

BORDEN IS COMING HOME WITH WILSON

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 14.—It is understood here that Premier Robert Borden of Canada, who is reported to have been offered the British ambassadorship at Washington, is to return to America on the same ship with President Wilson.

COVENANT OF NATIONS READ BY WILSON

A reduction of armaments, establishment of an international court of arbitration, the creation of an international military and naval force to police the world, and provision for a commercial and financial boycott of any power that disregards its agreements, are among the measures provided in the constitution of the League of Nations read to the plenary session of the peace conference by President Wilson in Paris this afternoon.

Van t powers are delegated to an executive committee of nine members. Five members will represent the United States, the British empire, France, Italy and Japan. The four other States that will have representation upon this committee have not yet been designated, Freedom of the seas is promised.

All future international treaties must be registered with the league. This does away with secret treaties of alliance.

Old treaties inconsistent with the league will be abrogated as soon as the league comes into official life.

That Germany is not to get back her colonies was the plan by Article Nineten, which stated that the powers best able to do so will exercise tutelage over certain colonies, under mandatories from the league.

TO CONTROL MUNITIONS.

Any war or threat of war, whether between two nations members of the league or not, is declared a matter of concern to the league, and the powers reserve the right to interfere in all disputes that cannot be settled through ordinary diplomacy. Other measures of the constitution provide:

The first meeting of the league of Nations shall be summoned by the President of the United States.

The executive council shall eliminate the evils arising from the outputs of arms and ammunition by private enterprises. The nations in the league are forbidden from concealing such productions from each other. There shall be full and free interchanges between the nations in the league on military and naval programs.

HOUSE DEMANDS SIX MONTHS' PAY FOR ALL WORLD WAR HEROES

2,000,000 SIGNERS NOW ON PETITION FOR BONUS

Following an unanimous endorsement by the House of Representatives the six months' pay plan for soldiers, sailors and marines regarded as the Boston American is now going before the Senate for instructed action.

Not a moment is to be lost in public when the resolution introduced by Representative Rogers is brought before the House with the instructions to report favorably. Not a dissenting Federal vote was given. There was instead a chorus of approval that greatly hastened the decision on the passage through the Massachusetts legislature.

2,000,000 SIGN PETITION.

The people is expected to be as expeditious in passing the resolution and the Massachusetts will be found up with a dozen other progressive States of the union which have officially declared by their acts that six months' pay is none too much to express the satisfaction of the people of the United States for the services of our soldiers, sailors and marines, during the war.

Over two million signers in the nation and eve 185,000 in the New England States alone tells the story of the wonderful reception given to the petition daily appearing in the Boston American.

Every branch of the service is included within the scope of the petition, all the various units that go to make up the army, the United States navy and the famous marines, always "first to fight."

The petition did not originally name sailors because there was some doubt whether this would fit in with the government's plans for the expansion of the navy. This doubt has now been removed and the bluejackets are included. The men who manned the ships which took the fighting men across or who patrolled the dangerous, submarine-infested waters, will likewise receive their share of the bonus when the necessary congressional action is taken.

The answer to hundreds of queries by mail as to whether men of the Coast Artillery, the Aviation Corps and other units will receive the bonus is that all are intended to share in the bonus.

ALL INDORSE PROGRAM.

An avalanche of letters, containing from scores to hundreds of signatures, continues to pour in to the Petition Editor. Employes of shops and factories, the entire personnel, almost without exception, are indorsing the petition.

Some of the concerns which have forwarded petitions signed by hundreds of their employes are the Regal Shoe Company, 600 names; the Boston Manufacturing Company of Waltham, 400 names; the Millbrooket Machine Company of Millbrooket, Me., 300 names; the Thomson-Crooker Company, shoe manufacturers of Roxbury, 500 names; T. Martin & Brother, Manufacturing Company of Chelsea, 200 names.

W. M. McMenimen, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declares that that organization is solidly behind the petition. This organization contributed seven members to the service during the war and has paid a great many death benefits to the families of men who made the great sacrifice.

Not only in the matter of securing the six months' pay for all men discharged or previously to be discharged from each branch of the service, but also in the matter of giving its services, but in giving free legal information and in aiding as far as possible all soldiers, sailors and marines to procure work.

Various firms are cooperating with this paper in agreeing to take back all of the returning employes who have been with them. The latest to declare their jobs are open to former employes is the firm of Winn & Coolidge, publishing firm. They write:

Boston American — Referring to your letter we beg leave to say that every position occupied by our employes when they were in the service, whether drafted or enlisted, will be ready for them as soon as they return. Some of them have already returned and we have requested the government to release others as soon as possible. If after our own men are taken care of there are still vacancies, we shall be glad to give the preference to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines.

If every employer would find a place for his own employes who entered the services, or if his business will not warrant that, see that positions are secured for them, there would be very few left to be taken care of.

We are glad to learn of your efforts to help these men find positions and believe you should be aided by all good citizens. It is of the utmost importance that the men who have risked all they have for us at home should be made to feel that we have not only stood by them while they were in service, but that we will not see them lack for employment when once they come out. Sincerely yours,

WINN & COOLIDGE.

"By Lewis Parkhurst."

Attorneys will answer questions of a legal nature and undertake many kinds of legal work in the courts for officers and enlisted men in behalf of the Boston American and its associated Hearst newspapers.

Please write any suggestion you have for widening the activities of this department.

Address all communications to Soldiers' Service Bureau, Boston American, No. 30 Summer street, Boston. Letters marked "confidential" will be so treated. Men of the army and navy, let us help you.

6 Months' Pay Bonus for Heroes Approved by Labor

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 14.—The United Board of Business Agents of the New York City Building Trades, representing 145,000 workers, has unanimously endorsed the plan of the Hearst papers to give all soldiers a six months' bonus. The following resolution, accompanying a copy of the Hearst papers' petition, was adopted:

"The board unanimously endorses the proposition presented in the above petition in its entirety. It is not only commendable, but is an absolute necessity in many cases brought to our notice through unemployment of those who have sacrificed so much, whilst others who have been exempt through ailments, dependency, etc., have sacrificed absolutely nothing, but in many cases have gained through advancement in employment and in filling vacancies caused by those who went into service."

PATRIOTISM OF MR. HEARST IS PRAISED

Federal Investigator Lauds Him as Leader Among "All-Americans"

New York, Feb. 14.—"The tremendous pulling power of the great papers published by William Randolph Hearst was never better exemplified than in the present campaign to crystallize public and official sentiment in favor of giving all discharged seamen six months' pay to tide them over that embarrassing period immediately following their return to civil life."

Thus spoke Colonel James L. Rodier, special investigator in the government's department of conciliation and mediation. Colonel Rodier added that in the many cities he has visited he has always found strong sentiment for the suggested bonus. Commenting on the policies of the Hearst papers, he said:

"I think the American people—the great masses of the people—are socially behind those principles, because they are all-American and always, or nearly always, in my opinion, right.

"From the attacks made upon him Mr. Hearst emerges as one of the foremost patriotic editors and publishers of the country, as all-American publishing all-American papers."

Colonel Rodier expressed hope that the petitions would have so many signatures that the "men in Washington will know the great American public demands the fighters be cared for during the time they are looking for work. He urged that our warriors not be forgotten the day they are discharged.

Be Sure to Get Your Income Tax Blank in Next 2 Weeks

Blank forms to be used in filing your Federal income tax return will be mailed to every individual who filed a tax return last year.

In case you did not file an income tax return last year, or in the event of your failure to receive a blank by mail in the next fortnight, you must either call or send for a blank at the office of the United States Collector of Internal Revenue, second floor, Little Building, at the corner of Boylston and Tremont streets, Boston.

The blanks for incomes of individuals up to $5,000 will be sent out within a few days. Forms for larger incomes will be distributed February 24, while forms for corporations will be available March 1.

ENLISTED MEN EXEMPT UP TO $3,500 A YEAR

Interest on Liberty Bonds Not to be Figured in Income Tax

Soldiers and sailors who are looking for light on the subject of the income tax need have no fear, for Uncle Sam has provided generously in their behalf.

No person who has served in the military or naval forces in any capacity or who has received salary or compensation in any form from the United States during the war for services in connection with such forces is called upon to pay an income tax unless such compensation is more than $3,500 a year.

Among the so-called "credits" enumerated under Clause 216 of the Revenue Bill now before the Congress is the provision that all interest on Liberty Bonds and all interest on other obligations of the United States, including bonds issued by the War Finance Corporation, shall be deducted from an individual's gross income before computing the amount of taxable income within the provisions of the law.

OTHER EXEMPTIONS.

The three other "credits" which may be deducted from your gross income before figuring the amount upon which you are liable for taxes are as follows:

(a) Dividends from corporations which are assessed an income tax on their own account before dividends are forthcoming.

(b) One thousand dollars in the case of a single person, and $2,000 in the case of the head of a family or married person living with a husband or wife. A husband and wife living together receive but one personal exemption of $2,000 between them or against their aggregate incomes. If they have separate incomes they may split the $2,000 exemption, but both must make a separate return, setting forth how each claims the personal exemption of $1,000 provided for single persons.

(c) Two hundred dollars for each dependent person (other than husband and wife) who receives his chief support from the taxpayer, providing that such dependent individual is under eighteen years old or is incapable of self-support because of some mental or physical defect.

EXAMPLES OF "CREDITS."

Figuring with the above "credits" in mind a married man earning $30 a week ($1,560 a year) would be exempt from filing a return or paying any Federal income tax.

If a married man had an income of $45 a week during the calendar year 1918 (or $2,340 a year), and owned $2,000 in Liberty Bonds which paid him $50 interest, he would ignore the $50 received from the Liberty Bonds and figure his income tax on the amount over $2,000 which he received from his position. Hence, if he had no children, he would pay only 4 per cent. on $340, or $13.60 income tax.

If the same married man had one dependent child he could claim an exemption of $2,700. In that case he would pay an income tax on the $140 balance between the $2,200 exemption and his earnings of $2,340, which would equal $8.40, or 6 per cent. of $140.

A single man without dependents and who earned $25 a week (or $1,300 a year) and had an additional income of $300 a year from dividends invested in a corporation which was subject to an income tax would ignore the $300 a year income from the taxable corporation and figure his income tax on $200, the amount between his legal exemption and his total earnings. In such a case his tax would be 6 per cent. of $200, or $13.

SPITTER FINED FOR CARRYING A REVOLVER

Spitting on the sidewalk on Dorchester avenue, South Boston, cost Giuseppe Viaplotta $50 today in South Boston court. The spitting charge was fined, but officers who searched him following his arrest on that charge found a revolver. The fine was imposed for carrying a loaded weapon without a permit.

John Harrington and Oscar Rodier were fined $5 each for spitting. Michael McDougal was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction for failure to support his wife and children.

Another Morse model that wins a unique place in the young man's affection is the "Culver," a single breasted, slash pocket model right up to the very latest minute in style.

Can you imagine a model more graceful, carrying more snap, or more typical of young American manhood?

And a Morse model that students have declared admiration for is the Morse "Exeter," a slim waisted 2-button model that fairly bristles with smartness.

POLICE ARREST MORE PICKETS IN MILL STRIKE AT LAWRENCE

THREAT TO DEPORT ALIENS

Foreign Agitators Are Warned at Conference With Federal Investigators

By JOHN F. GAVIN.

Lawrence, Feb. 14.—Two arrests today followed disturbances in the Newbury street district. While not serious, the disorder was more marked than any during the past few days of the strike. The men arrested, both pickets, were Alpie Di Salin, 41, and Allie Martoni, 23, charged with intimidation. They were taken into custody by Officer Humphrey of Lynn.

There was a considerable gathering of people in the streets, which kept the police busy. Officers were continually on the alert to keep the crowds moving.

New developments point to an early ending of the strike. They are:

The conference of Commissioner Henry J. Skeffington, of Boston, and Assistant Commissioner James Sullivan with the strike leaders; the statement of A. J. Muste, of Boston, a strike leader, that a settlement may be expected within a few days, and the two facts that the mills are running on a nearly full schedule, and that the executive committee of the Mayor's committee of 162 is giving its attention chiefly to after-strike problems.

Commissioner Skeffington and Mr. Sullivan held a conference with Inn Kaplan, Samuel Bramhall, chairman of the general strike committee, and Thomas G. Connolly, attorney for the strikers, at Kaplan's home, No. 2 Eutaw avenue. Although no one would give information as to what took place at the meeting it was unofficially reported that the government officials emphasized their warning that foreign-born agitators who persisted in stirring up trouble would find themselves facing action by the Department of Labor or the Bureau of Immigration. The inference was that such agitators would be deported.

At the Arlington Mills 80 per cent. of the operatives, by actual count, were back at work. Certain departments which handle preliminary work have more than enough operatives. It was stated that the company had taken back employes in some instances in order to keep them off the streets.

Thieves Rob Thief of $10,000 Worth of Stolen Gowns

New York, Feb. 14.—Burglar, burglar, burglar, was the wail sent up to Judge Rossicky by Harry Mitchell, whose police record, when appended to his name, gives it an imposing appearance.

"I played a lone hand in this burglary, your honor," said Harry. "I packed up $10,000 worth of dresses in a loft and hired a taxi to take 'em away. And what did this taxi driver and a man with him up and do, but take 'em away on me. I never got a cent. Lucks sare against me."

"I agree with you," said the judge, and sent him to prison for five years.

EIGHT ARRESTS IN SLAYING OF POLICEMAN

tioned at Dudley street station, making eight suspects held in the tragedy following a struggle last night in a Chelsea garage.

KNOWN TO POLICE.

One of the Turners is at liberty on bail awaiting a sentence in the Federal Court on the charge of peddling narcotic drugs. Only yesterday both the brothers were callers at the Federal Building. Just what connection they have with Deininger's murder is not known.

Hardly had the Turners been brought into the Dudley street police station when Captain Matthew F. Dailey of the Hanover street station hastened to Somerville where another arrest was made, the eighth following the slaying of the officer. The Somerville suspect was routed from bed in the home of his sister at No. 52 Rush street.

His name is John F. Dillon and according to Chief Kendrick of the Somerville police he is well known to them. They assert that June 2 last he broke into a garage of Joseph O'Neil and made off with a Ford car and fifteen shoes. He was arrested and his case placed on file in the Superior Court in East Cambridge, inasmuch as restitution had been made.

Thus far the following have been arrested in connection with Patrolman Deininger's murder:

Joseph Colonna, aged forty-one, chauffeur of the murder car.

Auldie Turner, twenty-six, of No. 130 Bird street, Dorchester.

Paul Turner, also twenty-two, of the same address.

John F. Dillon, aged twenty-two, No. 52 Rush street, Somerville.

David O. Ransky, Revere.

Mrs. David O. Ransky, Revere.

Benjamin Goldstein, Revere.

Albert S. Paeff, No. 50 Genesee street, Revere.

As yet no charge has been lodged against any of those taken in the dragnet which the police have spread.

BULLET HITS SAILOR.

The shooting, following the holdup of three Boston cashiers the previous night, has stirred the police to strenuous activity. No effort will be spared to bring Deininger's murderer and his companions to justice.

Two men were later taken into custody and questioned by the Revere police.

During the chase following the shooting a sailor was shot in the leg. He was on his way to telephone for an ambulance and refused to halt at the order of Patrolman John P. O'Niel of the Chelsea police, who then fired a shot.

STEALS $1,500 DIAMOND AT LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Feb. 14.—While hundreds of police patrolled the streets of this city today a man entered a jewelry store near City Hall, stole a $1,500 diamond, and escaped.

The man appeared at the store of M. Barlow No. 6 Pemberton street, and asked to see some of the diamonds he had examined yesterday. While the clerk's attention was diverted the unidentified man secreted a $1,500 diamond and walked out of the store before the loss of the stone had been discovered.

The man is described as an American, about twenty-two years old, six feet tall, of dark complexion. He wore a pepper and salt suit and a dark overcoat.

GIRL OF 18 HELD FOR THEFT OF FUR COAT

Lucy McLellan, eighteen, is under arrest charged with the attempted larceny of a fur coat from the coat room of Newton Classical High School.

According to the police, the girl broke down and admitted that she took the coat because she wanted to look as well as other girls. The girl said that she had been working in a mill to help support her mother.

GORHAM, ME., WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH AT 80

Gorham, Me., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Alonzo Kallock, aged eighty, of this town, was burned to death today while frying doughnuts in the kitchen of her home.

INSANITY PLEA BY BATES' COUNSEL

Augusta, Me., Feb. 14.—Pleading insanity as the result of hereditary epilepsy, former Attorney-General W. R. Pattengall in his plea to the jury in defence of Langdon Bates on trial for the murder of Mrs. Edith Cole at Wiscasset on the night of August 12, asked for a verdict which would place his client in the Insane Asylum instead of in the State prison at Thomaston for life.

Bates is alleged to have attempted to shoot to kill Miss Alice Simpson, with whom he is said to have been infatuated, when Mrs. Edith Cole stepped between them and received the fatal bullet. Miss Simpson was wounded by a second bullet, but recovered.

Arguing for the State, said: "This is not a question of heart or sympathy, but of absolute justice. There was murder in Bates' heart. He killed the woman who prevented him from seeing the girl he loved."

Following the closing arguments of opposing counsel, the case went to the jury. No verdict had been reached this afternoon.

30 YEARS FOR TALKING BACK TO OFFICER

Washington, Feb. 14.—The story of how a young man only twenty-five days in the military service of his country was sentenced to from twenty to thirty years' imprisonment for a comparatively slight infraction of military law, was related to the Senate Military Affairs Committee by Brigadier-General S. T. Ansell, acting judge advocate-general.

The sample of military injustice referred to followed a reprimand administered to a soldier in one of the cantonments for smoking a cigarette while on "kitchen police" duty.

The man was new to the service, and doubtless unfamiliar with military customs, regulations and requirements, General Ansell thought.

When the reprimand, administered by a second lieutenant who probably was new also, was followed by a demand that he hand over his cigarette to the lieutenant, he refused with what General Ansell characterized as "raucous" language and was placed under arrest.

COUPLE DEAD IN SOUTH BOSTON TRAGEDY

Medical Examiner Leary conducted an investigation today following the finding of the bodies of Fred Stewart, fifty-five, and his housekeeper, Miss Ethel Howard, twenty-seven, dead in their home at No. 302 Dorchester street, South Boston.

The woman's head was bruised and covered with blood. One of her elbows was also injured.

The gas in the kitchen was burning as was that in a burner attached to the kitchen range and used to heat the water in a boiler. The kitchen was filled with gas fumes which caused the police to declare that there was a defect in one of the gas attachments.

There were signs of a struggle in the kitchen. Several chairs had been overturned.

HERE'S "LAST CRY" IN PALM BEACH BATHING SUITS

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, 2d, wearing her "last cry" bathing suit at famous Florida beach. She is on her third honeymoon. She was formerly Mrs. Stewart Denning and Mrs. Pedar Bruguiere. Her marriage last December to Professor Hewitt, nearly thirty years her senior, caused a considerable stir among society folk.

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, 2nd—formerly Mrs. Stewart Denning, previously Mrs. Pedar Bruguiere, whose maiden name was Miss Marion Andrews—is enjoying her third honeymoon at Palm Beach. Her famous husband, of the New York and Newport Cooper Hewitts, millionaire by inheritance, millionaire also by fruit of his electrical inventions. Doctor of Science of Columbia University, is fifty-seven, while his bride is under thirty.

Mrs. Hewitt is shown wearing the "last cry" in bathing suits—the modish bloomer effect, trimmed with buttons, and made of a flowered satin. The bathing wrap over her shoulders is in the popular military style.

The marriage of the Peter Cooper Hewitts, last December, was the talk of two continents. Dr. Hewitt had already been married, and obtained a divorce from his first wife, who was Miss Lucy Work of New York, only three weeks before he married the charming divorcee of Pedar Bruguiere. The scientist had been devoted to the present Mrs. Hewitt for a number of years, and their friendship had excited gossip from Paris to New York.

48 'NIGHTIES' IN TROUSSEAU OF PRINCESS 'PAT'

By FLOYD MacGRIFF,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Feb. 14.—Princess Patricia probably has a larger assortment of "nighties" than any British bride to be in recent years. In her trousseau there are forty-eight night gowns. One dozen are made from fine, white linen on classic lines. A square-cut is bordered with the "key" pattern in hemstitching, and ribbons of pink, blue and pale yellow satin are threaded through the high waist and simple sleeves.

Three also are shell pink crystalline night gowns, with fine lace and glorious sets of "minon" and Valenciennes and Paris lace and crochet in blue, yellow, pink and cream. On each are flat satin bows.

EXQUISITE REST GOWN.

Then there is an exquisite rest gown of turquoise blue chiffon velvet, trimmed with gray squirrel. It has an under dress of accordion pleated blue chiffon, and a monk's hood over the shoulders.

Princess "Pat's" favorite color is blue and that dominates the entire trousseau. An inspection of her wedding outfit shows that she loves gowns and robes of tiny tucks, "fine linen," hemstitching, lots of lace and those well known transparent effects.

The trousseau is extremely artistic, from the simple monogram designs to the graceful lines of all her garments, lingerie included.

One of the very transparent petticoats is made of cream Maines lace and pink accordion pleated georgette. A silver tinsel ribbon with a flat bow is tied at the back of the waist line.

The entire trousseau is, of course, hand made.

The dressing gowns are of Zenana silk, warm and dainty, blue and pink, with white "bunny" fur trimming. Each has a little bed jacket to match, with deep pockets. So far, the Princess has not chosen any boudoir caps, evidently planning not to conceal her exquisite tresses.

SILVER AND GOLD DANCING GOWN

One of her truly royal frocks is a silver and gold dancing gown. Straight silver brocade panels fall from the gold net border around the neck, over soft gold net sides and silver sleeves.

There will be eight bridesmaids, three of them royal princesses, when the Princess "Pat" becomes the bride of Commander Ramsay. They are; Princess Mary, only daughter of King George; Princess Ingrid, niece of Princess "Pat" and the only daughter of the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden; Princess Maude of Fife, daughter of the Princess Royal; Lady Victoria Cambridge and Lady Helena Cambridge, daughters of the Marquis and Marchioness of Cambridge; Lady Ida and Lady Jane Ramsay, daughters of the Earl and Countess of Dalhousie, nieces of the bridegroom, and Lady May Cambridge, daughter of Brigadier-General the Earl and Countess of Athlone.

BONAR LAW TO ACT TO SUPPRESS PROFITEERS

London, Feb. 14.—The British government is willing to inquire into the question of nationalization, Chancellor of the Exchequer Bonar Law stated in the House of Commons.

The announcement was made in reply to a speech by J. H. Thomas, who demanded the nationalization of railways, mines and land, and the removal of profiteering as the "only salvation of the labor unrest."

The chancellor also promised measures for the suppression of profiteering.

Soldier Elopes With Wife of Man Who Gave Him a Job

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 14.—George Crum, recently discharged from the army, emulated another warrior, one J. Caesar, in that he came, saw and conquered. But in the case of Crum, according to the police, it was the wife of his employer who was conquered.

Crum was engaged as chauffeur for Edward Lee, wealthy Wellsboro, Pa., lumberman, following his discharge. On February 1, the police allege, the soldier-chauffeur eloped with Lee's young wife, took the lumberman's seven-passenger automobile and his two-year-old child, leaded two older children of Mrs. Lee's by a former marriage.

The trail of the runaway pair has been followed as far as this city through a series of checks alleged to have been forged by both Crum and Mrs. Lee.

NAVAL HONORS FOR CHARLESTOWN HERO

Rear-Admiral A. P. Niblack has commended Albert O. Hughes, a second class electrician of the navy, for saving the life of Earl E. Carson, a fireman, a mate master of the U. S. S. Landsdale was swamped at Tangier, Morocco, on December 6, 1918. Carson was a passenger. Eight other sailors were drowned. Before entering the service he received a Carnegie medal for rescuing a person when the Chelsea ferry crashed into a motorboat. His home is at No. 56 Decatur street, Charlestown.

DR. MUCK TO BE DEPORTED AS UNDESIRABLE

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 14.—Dr. Karl Muck, former director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Dr. Ernst Kunwald, Symphony director in this city, will be deported immediately as undesirable aliens, as the result of dictagraph evidence secured at Camp Sherman, Ohio, during a quarrel between the two men.

Official announcement of the government's plans was made here by Lieutenant-Colonel Roy. Mathes in an address before the Rotary Club. His words caused a sensation in social society and musical circles, where both orchestra leaders had a strong following.

The evidence against the pair was not revealed by Mathes, but he did say that while the two were confined at Oglethorpe as enemy aliens the United States Secret Service had obtained absolute evidence against them by means of a dictagraph concealed in their rooms.

Accusations made against each other when the two musicians engaged in a quarrel were recorded, according to Mathes.

Dr. Kunwald, according to admissions made, was a member of the German imperial reserve forces at the time war broke out between this country and Germany and had never been relieved of his duties.

It was stated that both musicians were slated for early deportation, but it was not known from which port the deportation would take place.

FEW CRIMINALS IN U. S. ARMY IN FRANCE

Detective Flood, Home From Paris, Blames Sensational Paper for Charges

New York, Feb. 14.—"The percentage of crime and criminals in the American army was exceedingly small. Most of our trouble was caused by neutrals who had settled in the larger cities of France."

With this statement by Captain Bernard J. Flood as he stepped from the transport Santa Teresa, a semi-official stab in a vital spot was given the rumor that crime had been rampant in the American expeditionary force.

Captain Flood, the "Barney" Flood well known at New York police headquarters as one of the city's best detectives, has been for eighteen months chief of the division of criminal investigation of the A. E. F. and possesses exact knowledge of conditions.

"As to the American crime wave," continued Captain Flood, "it was resolved up by a sensational Paris newspaper. All talk of organized American gangs impressed me as bunk. Possibly the end of the war brought its outbreak of assaults and robberies in Paris, just as it has done, I have no doubt, in New York, Chicago, Washington and other cities at home.

"I can well imagine that some of the gentlemen in the army who 'are known to the police' may have said: 'Now that we've done our bit it's up to us to see France.' They haven't the money to see France with and it may be they will pick it up. Here and there three or four of them may go about together. But there is no large number of American deserters in France, and the 'organized gang' story is not impressive.

"Wherever there was a unit of the American army there was a detail of our division. We ran down spies and undesirables. We investigated reports of murders and robberies. From beginning to end we sent out of France 710 undesirables."

New Haven Wants Big Gun Now Displayed on Boston Common

New Haven, Feb. 14.—This city wants possession of the 320-millimetre gun now being displayed on the Common in Boston, Mass.

Mayor David E. Fitzgerald has written a letter to the War Department, asserting New Haven's right to its possession.

The Mayor says the gun was captured by B Company, 102d Regiment, a New Haven unit, in the 26th Division. Governor Holcomb recently asked Major-General Edwards to turn the gun over to Connecticut, but his request was refused.

BRITISH MINERS REJECT TERMS OFFERED

Turn Down Government's Proposal to Increase Wages by Shilling-a-Day

By WILLIAM J. BUTLER.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

London, Feb. 14.—Unanimous rejection by the Miners' Federation of the government's terms of daily increase of 1 shilling and consideration by a strong committee, including representatives of the miners, on demands for a six-hour day and nationalization of mines are believed today to constitute the prelude to a national miners' strike.

The labor horizon is again clouded and the menace of an industrial upheaval is not yet over.

Among the main legitimate causes of the new threatening troubles are:

1. The present national business slump, due to the sudden stoppage of more than $10,000,000 of daily wages paid out during war time to the munitions makers and other war labor bodies.
2. Unemployment pending the putting into operation of the reconstruction program.
3. The high cost of food.

The Railwaymen's and Dock Workers' Federations are considering following the miners' example in rejecting the government's terms. There is hope, however, in some quarters, that these workers may not strike after all, the government having conceded the demand for an eight-hour day, not including meal time.

DANCE CHARGES STIR GIRLS OF MELROSE

Melrose's younger society set, both young women and young men, are all agog today over the action of the Melrose Highlands Woman's Club in passing a resolution condemning 5 o'clock parties for young people and making charges of extravagance and immodesty in dress.

This action, coming on the eve of the big Victory dance, February 21, in Memorial Hall, which will be the social event of the year for the younger set and for which the Kappa Delta Psi and the Psi Theta Xi sororities have united their efforts, leaves no doubt in the minds of the young people that the resolution is aimed directly at them.

Particularly are the girls wrought up over the charges of indecency in dress, and they indignantly deny the insinuation. They declare there is nothing immodest in low-necked gowns that are cut decorously, nor in the use of shoulder straps for their gowns instead of sleeves. They deny the statement made by one mother at the Highlands Woman's Club meeting that boys would be barred from the dance if they were not in dress suits or tuxedos.

"We never have insisted on dress suits," declared a member of the committee. "Many boys have attended the dances in former years in their business or school clothes and never has one of them been asked to leave. Such a statement is absurd."

The resolution which has caused all the rumpus was introduced at the meeting of the Highlands Woman's Club by Miss Agnes L. Dodge, a former president of the club. The resolution states that the "Melrose Highlands Woman's Club goes on record as absolutely opposed to any dance prolonged later than midnight, and to the improper and extravagant dresses on the part of the young ladies and to the unnecessary expense forced on the young men."

"I am sure I don't know what has happened to the mothers of Melrose girls to allow such dresses for their daughters as are seen at these dances," said Miss Dodge. "That is why, in my resolution, I put special emphasis on the 'improper dress' part.

"The boy's mother told me that her son is in high school, had been told that if he didn't wear a dress suit he could not be permitted to dance. Another mother told me that when the young man who was to take her daughter to the Kappa-Thets dance heard that the daughter was to wear sleeves to her gown instead of shoulder straps, he made an awful holler about it. Think of it? And they are High school pupils, too."

The dance committee in charge of the Victory Dance consists of many of the most prominent young women of the city. Mrs. Thomas J. Kimball is chairman of the Theta committee and Miss Ethel Curry is chairman of the Kappa committee.

RUTH NEVINS, one of the leaders of Victory Dance in Melrose who resents Woman's Club charges of immodesty in dance gowns.

Three novel and picturesque models—one cannot but suspect them of being French inspired.

The simplest of skirts worn with one of these decorative Tunic Blouses is raised to the status of a piquant costume.

Will be sold on the Thoroughfare as well as on Second Floor

The "D'Arlay" (A) TUNIC BLOUSE

—of beach cloth for immediate wear or during the lazy days of early spring—slips over the head, to bring a great degree of comfort. Horizontal tucks bedeck the front; negligee circular neck, deep pockets; narrow sash trails to considerable length. Plain leather, blue or rose grounds, relieved by touches of gay hued embroidery.

The "Janne" (B) TUNIC BLOUSE

—of beach cloth. Just enough smartly stylish to evade the giddy or frivolous. The front is made with deep yoke, deep white "student" collar and cuffs spotted with tiny French knots of color. No color disturbs the plain blue, rose or green other than the radiance of vari-hued hand smocking on blouse front and pocket fronts. Simple but effective loose lines.

The "Elainne" (C) TUNIC BLOUSE

—of Lonsdale lean that slips its roomy way over the head—and into the heart. All white and straight hanging from the shoulder, "peasant fashion." To complete its odd charm the collar, sleeve ends and odd shaped pockets are of contrasting color; loose belt.

No woman in these days needs to be told the usefulness of smocks that wash and wear like these.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS COVENANT SUBMITTED TO PEACE CONFERENCE

principles and in such manner as they think fit. Pending the consideration of these representatives of the other States, representatives of (blank) shall be members of the executive council.

Meetings of the council shall be held from time to time as occasion may require, and at least once a year at whatever place may be decided on, or failing any such decision at the seat of the league, and any matter within the sphere of action of the league, or affecting the peace of the world may be dealt with at such meetings.

Invitations shall be sent to any power to attend a meeting of the council at which matters directly affecting its interests are to be discussed and no decision taken at any meeting will be binding on such power unless so invited.

ARTICLE IV.

All matters of procedure at meetings of the body of delegates or the executive council, including the appointment of committees to investigate particular matters, shall be regulated by the body of delegates or the executive council and may be decided by a majority of the States represented at the meeting.

The first meeting of the body of delegates and of the executive council shall be summoned by the President of the United States of America.

ARTICLE V.

The permanent secretariat of the league shall be established at (blank) which shall constitute the seat of the league. The secretariat shall comprise such secretaries and staff as may be required under the general direction and control of a secretary-general of the league, who shall be chosen by the executive council; the secretariat shall be appointed by the secretary-general, subject to confirmation by the executive council.

The secretary-general shall act in that capacity at all meetings of the body of delegates or of the executive council.

The expenses of the secretariat shall be borne by the States members of the league in accordance with the apportionment of the expenses of the international bureau of the Universal Postal Union.

ARTICLE VI.

Representatives of the high contracting parties and officials of the league when engaged on the business of the league shall enjoy diplomatic privileges and immunities, and the buildings occupied by the league or its officials or by representatives attending its meetings shall enjoy the benefit of extra territoriality.

ARTICLE VII.

Admission to the league of States not signatories to the covenant and not named in the annex hereto as States to be invited to adhere to the covenant, requires the assent of not less than two-thirds of the States represented in the body of delegates, and shall be limited to fully self-governing countries, including dominions and colonies.

No State shall be admitted to the league unless it is able to give effective guarantees of its sincere intention to observe its international obligations and unless it shall conform to such principles as may be prescribed by the league in regard to its naval and military forces and armaments.

ARTICLE VIII.

The high contracting parties recognize the principle that the maintenance of peace will require the reducing of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with public safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations, having special regard to the geographical situation and circumstances of each State; and the executive council shall formulate plans for effecting such reduction.

The executive council shall also determine for the consideration and action of the several governments to the league, and the high contracting parties reserve the right to take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations.

It is hereby also declared and agreed to be the friendly right of each of the high contracting parties to draw the attention of the body of delegates or of the executive council to any circumstances affecting international intercourse which threaten to disturb international peace or the good understanding between nations, upon which peace depends.

ARTICLE XII.

The high contracting parties agree that should disputes arise between them which cannot be adjusted by the ordinary processes of diplomacy, they will in no case resort to war without previously submitting the questions and matters involved either to arbitration or to inquiry by the executive council, and until three months after the award by the arbitrators or a recommendation by the executive council, and that they will not even then resort to war as against a member of the league which complies with the award of the arbitrators or the recommendation of the executive council.

In any case under this article the award of the arbitrator shall be made within a reasonable time and the recommendation of the executive council shall be made within six months after the submission of the dispute.

ARTICLE XIII.

The high contracting parties whenever any dispute or difficulty shall arise between them which they recognize to be suitable for submission to arbitration, and which cannot be satisfactorily settled by diplomacy, will submit the whole matter to arbitration. For this purpose the court of arbitration to which the case is referred, shall be the court agreed on by the parties or stipulated in any convention existing between them.

The high contracting parties agree that they will carry out in full good faith any award that may be rendered. In the event of any failure to carry out the award the executive council shall propose what steps can best be taken to give effect thereto.

ARTICLE XIV.

The executive council shall formulate plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice and this court shall, when established, be competent to hear and determine any matter which the parties recognize as suitable for submission to it for arbitration under the foregoing article.

ARTICLE XV.

If there should arise between states members of the league any dispute likely to lead to rupture, which is not submitted to arbitration as above, the high contracting parties agree that they will refer the matter to the executive council and either party to the dispute may give notice of the existence of the dispute to the Secretary-General, who will make all necessary arrangements for a full investigation and consideration thereof. For this purpose the parties agree to communicate to the Secretary-General as promptly as possible, statements of their case with all the relevant facts and papers and the executive council may forthwith direct the publication thereof.

Where the efforts of the council lead to the settlement of the dispute, a statement shall be published indicating the nature of the dispute and the terms of the settlement, together with such explanations as may be appropriate. If the dispute has not been settled, a report by the council shall be published, setting forth with all necessary facts and explanations the recommendations which the council think just and proper for the settlement of the dispute.

If the report is unanimously agreed to by the members of the council other than the parties to the dispute, the high contracting parties agree they will not go to war with any party which complies with the recommendations, and that, if any party shall refuse so to comply, the council shall propose measures necessary to give effect to the reason. If no such unanimous report can be made it shall be the duty of the majority and the privilege of the minority to issue statements indicating what they believe to be the facts and containing the reasons which they consider to be just and proper.

The executive council may in any case under this article refer the dispute to the body of delegates. The dispute shall be referred at the request of either party to the dispute, provided that such request must be made within fourteen days after the submission of the dispute. In any case referred to the body of delegates all the provisions of this article and of article twelve relating to the action and powers of the executive council shall apply to the action and powers of the body of delegates.

ARTICLE XVI.

Should any of the high contracting parties break or disregard its covenants under Article 12, it shall thereby ipso facto be deemed to have committed an act of war against all the other members of the league, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade or financial relations, the prohibition, of all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking State, and the prevention of all financial, commercial, or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking State and the nationals of other States, whether a member of the league or not.

It shall be the duty of the executive council in such case to recommend what effective military or naval force the members of the league shall severally contribute to the armed forces to be used to protect the covenants of the league.

The high contracting parties agree, further, that they will mutually support one another in the financial and economic measures which may be taken under this article in order to minimize the loss and inconvenience resulting from the above measures, and that they will mutually support one another in resisting any special measures aimed at one of their number by the covenant-breaking State, and that they will afford passage through their territory to the forces of any of the high contracting parties who are co-operating to protect the covenants of the league.

ARTICLE XVII.

In the event of disputes between one State, member of the league, and another state which is not a member of the league or between states not members of the league, the high contracting parties agree that the state or states not members of the league shall be invited to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purposes of such dispute, upon such conditions as the executive council may deem just, and upon acceptance of any such invitation the above provisions shall be applied with such modifications as may be deemed necessary by the league.

Upon such invitation being given, the executive council shall immediately institute an inquiry into the circumstances and merits of the dispute and recommend such action as may seem best and most effectual in the circumstances.

In the event of a power so invited refusing to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purposes of such dispute, and taking any action against a State member of the league which is the case of a State member of the league would constitute a breach of Article Twelve, the provisions of Article Sixteen shall be applicable as against the State taking such action.

If both parties to the dispute when so invited refuse to accept the obligations of membership in the league for the purpose of such dispute, the executive council may take such action and make such recommendations as will prevent hostilities and will result in the settlement of the dispute.

ARTICLE XVIII.

The high contracting parties agree that the league shall be entrusted with general supervision of the trade in arms and ammunition with the countries in which the control of this traffic is necessary in the common interest.

ARTICLE XIX.

To those colonies and territories which as a consequence of the late war have ceased to be under the sovereignty of the States which formerly governed them and which are inhabitated by peoples not yet able to stand by themselves under the strenuous conditions of the modern world, there should be applied the principle that the well being and development of such peoples form a sacred trust which should be embodied in the constitution of the league.

The best method of giving practical effect to this principle is that the tutelage of such peoples should be entrusted to advanced nations, who, by reason of their resources, their experience or their geographical position can best undertake this responsibility, and that this tutelage should be exercised by them as mandatories in behalf of the league.

The character of the mandate must differ according to the stage of the development of the people, the geographical situation of the territory, its economic conditions and other similar circumstances.

Certain communities formerly belonging to the Turkish empire have reached a stage of development where their existence as independent nations can be provisionally recognized subject to the rendering of administrative advice and assistance by a mandatory power until such time as they are able to stand alone. The wishes of these communities must be a principal consideration in the selection of the mandatory power.

Other peoples, especially those of Central America, are at such a stage that the mandatory must be responsible for the administration of the territory subject to conditions which will guarantee freedom of conscience or religion, subject only to the maintenance of public order and morals. The prohibition of abuses such as the slave trade, the arms traffic and the liquor traffic and the prevention of the establishment of fortifications or military and naval bases and of military training of the natives for other than police purposes and the defense of territory, and will also secure equal opportunity for the trade and commerce of other members of the league.

There are territories, such as southwest Africa and certain of the South Pacific Isles, which, owing to the sparseness of the population, or their small size, or their remoteness from the centres of civilization, or their geographical continuity to the mandatory state and other circumstance, can be best administered under the laws of the mandatory state as integral portions thereof, subject to the safeguards above mentioned in the interests of the indigenous population.

In every case of mandate the mandatory state shall render to the league an annual report in reference to the territory committed to its charge.

The degree of authority, control or administration to be exercised by the mandatory state shall if not previously agreed upon by the high contracting parties in such case be explicitly defined by the executive council in a special act or charter.

The high contracting parties further agree to establish at the seat of the league a mandatory commission to receive and examine the annual reports of the mandatory powers, and to assist the league in insuring the observance of the terms of all mandates.

ARTICLE XX.

The high contracting parties will endeavor to secure and maintain fair and humane conditions of labor for men, women and children both in their own countries and in all countries in which their commercial and industrial relations extend, and for that purpose will establish as part of the organization of the league a permanent bureau of labor.

ARTICLE XXI.

The high contracting parties agree that provision shall be made through the instrumentality of the league to secure and maintain freedom of transit and equitable treatment for the commerce of all States members of the league, having in mind, among other things, special arrangements with regard to the necessities of the regions devastated during the war of 1914-1918.

ARTICLE XXII.

The high contracting parties agree that provision shall be made through the league for the supervision of the traffic in women and children and the supervision of the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs with those countries in which they have undertaken to secure the suppression of such traffic.

ARTICLE XXIII.

The high contracting parties agree that every treaty or international agreement entered into hereafter by any state member of the league shall be forthwith registered with the secretary-general, as soon as possible published by him, and that no such treaty or international agreement shall be binding until so registered.

ARTICLE XXIV.

It shall be the right of the body of delegates from time to time to advise the reconsideration by states members of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable and of international condition of which the continuance may endanger the peace of the world.

ARTICLE XXV.

The high contracting parties severally except that the present covenant in accepted as abrogating all obligations inter se, which are inconsistent with the terms thereof, and solemnly engage that they will not hereafter enter into any agreements inconsistent with the terms thereof. In case any of the powers signatory hereto or subsequently admitted to the league shall, before becoming a party to this covenant, have undertaken any obligations which are inconsistent with the terms of this covenant, it shall be the duty of such power to take immediate steps to procure its release from such obligations.

ARTICLE XXVI.

Amendments to this covenant will take effect when ratified by the states whose representatives compose the executive council, and by three-fourths of the states whose representatives compose the body of delegates.

This rash may become serious.

Some people are inclined to neglect a slight rash. They consider it a mere trifle and expect it to disappear next day. On the contrary this delay permits the rash often times to become more malignant in nature, and consequently more difficult to overcome and heal.

We Will Have a Thousand Sane, Sensible People Waiting at the Door Saturday Morning. Where Will You Be?

Without our burdens to bear as the price we must pay for living, humanity would be down on the level of the brutes in the fields. Men and women who strive at honest industry and pull their full share of the load of life are not stoking-bollers. Our every heart should be fortified with the principles of brotherly love. Our every act guided by the Golden Rule. Pity the unfortunate individuals who have allowed vicious habits to root themselves into their souls. Know thyself and rid thyself of glaring sins that lead to misery. The spoke that is uppermost in the wheel of life today may be under tomorrow. Sweeten the days as they glide past you by sprinkling them over with smiles. Let not the ingratitude of men and the inquities of the times discourage you; all good men and women should lend a hand in kindling a flame underneath the earthly altar of Justice and Peace until we can feel assured high Heaven will admit our unquestioned rectitude in life and business. The noted culture of the Boston people will approve this statement, that happiness and contentment flows from a life fed on an incentive to do good.

A Ladies' Cloak Sale

Consisting of All-the-Year-Round Garments to Be Worn on Cool Evenings in Summer and When Out Motoring

The unseasonable weather of this Winter irrevocably doomed to disaster the cloak business. Today is not yesterday. Change is needful. We confess change. Our way of selling goods must change; the mighty currents of thought take us out into new fields. Former facts become clouded doubts. In my 21 years of Mill-End experience I have never seen a time when the very best styles in women's coats were slaughtered as is the case this season. I will keep my eye on the great third floor on Saturday, and if prices and styles and qualities count for anything, the women will go home happier than they have ever been in their lives who purchase from our ready-to-wear department on the third floor. I have blood in my eye. The business I will get at any cost.

HANSON TELLS HOW HE HID BANK THEFTS FROM BANK EXAMINERS

in a brokerage house. Of course, I know nothing of that sort of it. A man in a brokerage house using that end of it and I being the supply office the party who had to do the signing of it.

Q—That has been your way of spending the money? A—Absolutely.

Q—Investing in common sense broker? A—You if you call a speculation investment.

Q—Speculating? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Now, you give His Honor some idea as to how you got into this position as an honest man, you were examined every so often or the bank examiners, and as a first company you were examined by the various bank commissioners? A—I think so, yes.

NEVER FEARED DETECTION.

Q—I wish you would explain to His Honor how you manipulated this and as to these examinations. A—From the beginning of the, the beginning being small it was very easy, and later course, would grow larger and it was a little difficult. If you would care to have me tell that?

Q—Yes. A—And recently when it was so large—I am not very good at talking, but I will try to explain it. Well, it got so large, well, I never had any great fear.

Q—Why? A—Well, because in my position at the time I would place things at bank, I could put orders through on today and send in to borrow the cash or equivalent, the would cash the drafts the day before, and they were never checked out. I do not know whether that is clear to you or not.

Q—Why weren't they? A—Well, I don't know; they never were, the explanation never went far enough.

Q—Those were supposed to be full and final examinations? A—Exactly.

Q—You say you got so you had no fear of them? A—No.

WHILE EXAMINERS WORKED.

Q—How often would they have these examinations? A—Why, sometimes twice a year; once anyway, and sometimes twice; and when they had their own auditor I think there have been times fully four times a year; once anyway.

Q—Have you manipulated while they were examining? A—Surely, the next morning; the morning they were the manipulation occurs.

Q—That has been done through these examinations? A—Exactly; sure.

Q.—Was there any way of preventing this? A.—Yes, in this whole business a complete audit would have stripped it years ago.

Q.—You felt encouraged to go on because the audits were not complete and thorough? A.—As I say, I had no great fear for that reason.

Q—Last only you have been dealing with one man, have you not, in New York? A—Yes, all; other man right through.

Q—Won't you tell what your relations with him have been, how you did it, I mean how you did business with him, why, as I say, he handled that end, and I would either send him money or checks and get the funds to use.

Q—During December and January you resorted to the use of checks? A—That is in the beginning I had authority to sign them.

Q—Did the treasurer you would sign a check, a bank check, and send over to him? A—Yes, and I'll ever to him.

Q—And so would do the specialties with him? A—He would do the work.

Q—And inform him that you would either take over the cash or send it over? A—Yes either take it or send it.

Q—You did your business with him, did you tell him? A—I would go over there, not very often, and once in a time, while he came over here; usually I went over there.

Q—In what other way did you communicate with him? A—I telephoned.

H—At night? A—At night.

Q—That has been going on how many years, roughly? A—To any extent I would say four or five years.

Q—What is the man's name? A—Charles K. Hogan.

Q—He was formerly a Boston man? A—Yes, sir.

Q—What have you got to say about the bank itself? A—In what way?

Q—Well, this thing has been happening out there, one would naturally wonder why the officials above you did not find this thing out. A—They would depend upon the audit; if there had been any suspicion and an audit was made naturally after the audit was made, if there was any suspicion, they would not think any more about it.

PRAISE FOR TREASURER.

Q—Do you want to say anything about your superior, the treasurer of the bank? A.—He is a very capable man; he has never had half a chance to run the bank as he should run it, he has had insufficient help always, he has never had half a chance to run it as he should; I think more through the ignorance of the people above him and not because of the clerical help there was.

Q—Do you want us to understand that he was kept so busy on certain things that he had very little time to look after other things? A.—Exactly.

Q—Did he know anything about your speculations? A.—Absolutely nothing.

Q—Did any other person in the bank know what you were doing? A.—Absolutely nobody.

Q—Did any body help you in any way? A.—Not a soul.

Q—You worked this thing all alone? A—All alone.

Q—I think you told something about one time while the bank examiners were there of a rather large sum you manipulated. Do you remember that? A.—I certainly do.

Q—Will you tell His Honor about that? A—It was a matter of the examiners

Q—The bank examiners? A.—Yes. This will be unexamine. The night before I would need $50,000 or $40,000 to make up the shortage, we will call it a debit item, I would charge the First National with the debit item, might be three items amounting to $100,000.

Q.—The First National is —— A.—is our Boston correspondent, —— and the next morning they appear; naturally the cash is counted and everything is O. K. I will make up three deposits in the forenoon we have a messenger going to Boston in the forenoon; I would make up three deposits and shove them into the First National deposit; they would correspond to these deposits that were made the day before that; those were "phony," of course. They would go into the First National and they would appear on this statement the next day, and in that reconciliation of this bank account these "phony" items would have to appear, and the next day they are checked out O. K.; It has never been followed through far enough.

Q—They were right there all the time this was going on? A.—Right there all the time.

Q—Captain Armstrong reminds me that you gave him as to the amount you had taken out six months ago, or a year ago, or a year and a half ago? A—No, I would be a matter of two or three thousand dollars.

Q—You carried this thing on by manipulating a few accounts, particularly? A—This last year.

Q—How many accounts? You picked out certain dead accounts? A—Yes.

Q—Tell His Honor how it was and how many? A—I should say there were a number of, of course, it would vary, if the account needed anything it would be straightened. I think about five accounts; there are usually large accounts that I knew the nature of and the balances they kept.

Q—That is, how much cash was it you were manipulating? A—About $100,000 or $107,000.

Q—Every day? A—Every day, have you got any money? A—What I have in my pocket.

Q—Has you wife got any? A—No money.

Q—You have been married about a year? A—No, since November.

Q—You have made some restitution of some of this amount? A—Yes.

Q—$5,000 actually has been paid? A—Yes.

Q—And there is some prospect of perhaps a very much larger sum? A—There is.

Q—Although it has not been converted? A—I understand not.

Q—It is not within your power? A—Not within my power.

Q—That is in New York? A—Yes.

Q—Actually through your offices $5,000 has gone in? A—It has.

Q—Do you own anything? Do you own any real estate? A—Everything I own has been turned over the Market Trust Company.

Q—Your automobile? A—Everything has been turned over to the Market Trust Company.

Q—How old are you? A—Thirty-seven.

Q—You have lived all your life in Quincy? A.—Quincy and Brighton, Allston.

Q—You have no children? A—No.

Q—This Hogan that you did business with in New York latterly in this large amount was a boyhood friend and a distant relative? A—Yes.

Q—You received no statements from him except by telephone? A—Nothing, that's all.

Silver and Nickel Plating

Replish your old silverware, bathroom fixtures, etc.; good as new; prices low. Yale Plating Co., 15 Chapton st., Boston, 4th floor.

Q—Nothing in writing? A—Nothing; I had one end to take care of and he took care of the rest.

FRENCHMEN DECLARE U. S. YIELDED TO GERMANY

By DR. E. J. DILLON.
Special Cable to the Boston American and Philadelphia Public Ledger.
(Copyright in the United States and Canada by the Philadelphia Ledger Company. Copyright in Europe by the London Daily Telegraph.)

Paris, Feb. 14.—Debates on the conditions on which the armistice will shortly be renewed have been going on for several days without a decisive result.

The cause of the delay is the uncompromising attitude of the champions of two irreconcilable courses. One party is convinced that the success of the League of Nations and the interests of the future neighborliness between France and Germany peremptorily demand a measure of moderation today, while the other party only approves President Wilson's projected new order on condition that it does not imply an abatement of one jot of the drastic terms which should be imposed upon Germany if no fellowship of nations were contemplated.

REMOVES CAUSE OF FRICTION.

Mr. Wilson holds that his scheme for the resettlement of political Europe by moral forces will make itself felt throughout the world by removing many causes of disputes and preventing others from culminating in hostilities. It will be stronger, he holds, than the safest strategic frontiers and the most solid fortresses, and for that reason renders the acquisition of territorial barriers superfluous.

He, therefore, assumes that the governments which have made an act of faith in the efficacy of this project are ready to demonstrate the sincerity of their belief by accepting its practical corollaries. Of these corollaries the most important and far-reaching is the renunciation of all claims of whatsoever nature which do not emanate from considerations of strictest justice.

VETOED BY COL. HOUSE.

This view has been steadfastly maintained by President Wilson and Colonel House ever since hostilities were suspended. It is affirmed on good authority that when the armistice was first being arranged it was proposed by France, who desired to create a powerful state on the German eastern frontiers, that the Germans should be compelled to evacuate the province of Posen, including Danzig, because the country was destined to be united with emancipated Poland, but that Colonel House entered a veto and the matter had to be left in abeyance.

Among the consequences of this decision are the battles now being fought between the Poles and the Germans and the firm resolve of the latter not to sign away Posen, even though a unanimous conference should decree its fusion with Poland. As the French foreign office readily acquiesced in the Wilsonian ideals as transmitted by cable, reserving to itself the right of interpreting them later when circumstances should become pressing, this agreement, which to Mr. Wilson appeared to be the beginning of harmonious co-operation for the establishment of a new ordering of the universe, was in reality only postponement of the fateful test of the question which threatened to weaken the Block of Nations, and now that the thorny problem has to be taken in hand, the differences that separate the two parties are coming into sharp relief.

French public men are amazed and alarmed at the speed with which the Teutons have recovered their energy, vigor and readjusted their regime to latter day needs, while the continental allies are still discussing plans for the remote future, leaving concrete problems to some later date.

They see in the new republic a Germany that clear-visioned observers never cared to discern, namely a powerful, compact and virile race, conscious of its inherent strength and resolved to take such a share in molding world destinies as its ability and other qualities appear to warrant. They are dismayed at the prospect of an economic struggle, which will begin as soon as the American and British have departed, leaving France alone with her forty million of steadily decreasing population to cope with the organization, the enterprise and the resourcefulness of the sobered German race.

And they plead passionately for the adoption of such mechanical expedients as they deem adequate to render the chances of an economic tournament equal. Thus one Paris journal writes: "The whole north of France is now out of the industrial running and so Germany, if she were given raw material and free entries into the markets of the world, would certainly deal a death blow to French industry and commerce."

CLEMENCEAU'S SPEECH.

Hence when M. Clemenceau spoke at the supreme interallied war council at the last meeting he was emphatic in his statement that France could not and possibly will not permit any importation of raw materials into Germany.

In like manner Germany's potential army is a source of heart burnings to the heroic French people, who, although victorious, are war weary, as indeed is all Europe, and are anxious to reduce their adversary to a state of chronic impotence by demanding, as condition for a renewal of armistice, the surrender of all war material above what is necessary for the maintenance of a limited number of troops.

Lastly, a national desire is being formulated by France's military and political leaders to make the Rhine the barrier against future German aggressions and create an independent buffer state on its left bank, in which allied garrisons would be quartered.

Such, in brief, is France's program, after the execution of which she will whole-heartedly accept the Wilsonian schema for the world's ethical and political regeneration.

Mr. Wilson, on the other hand, is believed to regard these precautionary expedients as unnecessary, because his scheme, when realized, will prove a substitute for barriers and buffer States, and faith in the League of Nations entails the conviction that such territorial changes are worse than useless, for they show not only a lack of confidence in the new ordering of Europe, but also blindness to the disastrous influence which the proposed measures would have upon the establishment of that new ordering. They would leave festering sores which no amount of suasion or argument could cauterize.

U. S. AND BRITAIN AGREE.

With regard to the armistice terms it is affirmed at the outside conference that the American delegates do not fully appreciate the grounds on which they are progressively raised. Their idea is alleged to be that the armistice is in a state preparatory to peace and therefore only provisional and necessarily unsatisfactory, but that as definitive peace conditions will remedy its defects these might be patiently supported until then unless really grave circumstances arise altering the situation and necessitating the adoption of immediate counter measures.

It is further affirmed that the British delegates are disposed to identify themselves with the American way of envisaging the matter, whereas those of Italy side with France. But during these long sittings neither party obtained an effective stage in free and animated debate. On the outside conference the influence of the press and of public opinion have mobilized in favor of the French demands, and the statement has been reproduced in almost every journal that Premier Clemenceau has the entire French nation behind him and cannot abandon the position taken.

Americans, on the other hand, point to the armistice as voluntarized by all European allies that they adhered to Wilson's tenets and would co-operate.

White's Annual February Furniture Sale

The Largest Stock in Our History Based on 1917 and 1918 Contracts—Now Undergoing Adjustment to Normal Conditions

This Is the Basis of the Sale:

We bought very little furniture during the latter part of 1918. Early in the war no merchant could fail to see that prices must greatly advance. At that time the nation was talking "preparedness"—but, what is more to the point, R. H. White Co. were preparing. Anticipating difficulties we placed heavy orders in the great furniture-making centres—north, west and south, expecting to have to carry much of it in our storehouses in order to be sure of having the merchandise on hand when needed. But labor troubles, transportation embargoes and costly delays upset all plans. Then came deliveries at inopportune times, with the result that we have now a larger stock of furniture than we expected at this time—the largest in many years.

Jordan Marsh Company
Great Basement Store
The Famous Store Within a Store For the Sale of the Less Expensive Merchandise

Many Small Lots Not Listed Here

For Saturday—These New Bargain Lots From The ANNIVERSARY OF A VERY SUCCESSFUL SALE

A week ago our big Basement Store closed out the stock of the W. & A. Bacon Co. It was one of the most phenomenal sales ever recorded in any Boston store. Plans were made to excel this wonderful event and the sale will continue for two weeks. On account of lack of space in our fine Hemenway Store, and to prevent confusion, we shall advertise only a few departments each day, but every day—even to the last one, the bargains offered will be just as extraordinary as on the first day of the sale.

Each Day of the Sale We Shall Offer

Who Ever Saw Such a Sale!

Instead of gradually tapering off, the buying is just as brisk as at the start. The discharged doughboy is one reason for this. To him, this chance to get good clothes for little money is as welcome as mess call. Then again, we still offer a good variety far and away better than you can find anywhere else.

The quality of our merchandise, as we've told you before, is far above the average. Fabrics of finest Australian wool which we bought before substitutes became necessary. Tailoring of the very highest grade obtainable.

On top of that, our regular prices were so low as to cause extended comment among the trade. And bear in mind that our reductions are based on those same former prices—not on any so-called values.

So Here's Unquestioned Quality At Unmistakable Savings

THIS is the anniversary of the battle of Cape St. Vincent in 1797, when a British fleet under Admiral Jervis, with fifteen men-of-war, defeated the Spaniards with twenty-seven. The victory was largely due to the genius of Nelson. Jervis was created Earl St. Vincent and granted $15,000 a year

A Useful Hint

A BLACK glove is most useful. Lumps of coal or kettle handle can then be picked up without soiling the fingers. These gloves can be bought, but many women make their own, with room for the thumb only. They are shaped just like a large baby's glove and padded with several thicknesses of material.

Trading Quiet and Prices Firm at Midday; Oil Stocks Strong

LEATHER STOCKS OF ALL KINDS STRONG

Southern Pacific and Marine Preferred Sell Above 100. Then React

A reaction at midday on the New York exchange sent prices down to their lowest of the day. Recoveries of this, however, many of the active issues showed gains. Among them were Southern Pacific and Marine preferred, which sold above 100 before they reacted. Shares of all stocks were still the strongest group.

Leather stocks of all kinds were strong. The Tobacco Products continued likewise, tobacco issues selling at both United and Cigar Stores making new highs.

Coppers and railroads were dull without much change in the prices. Equipment issues showed considerable strength. There was selling of National Enameling.

The local market was irregular. Shannon sold down to 20, Quincy Mining sold up to 98, the highest price since 1916. United Fruit recovered all of its loss of Thursday's slight gain. Fairbanks Company and Stewart weakened.

New Haven recovered part of its loss of yesterday and at one time sold as high as 27¾.

The gains include: Mexican Petroleum, 2 points at 174½; Texas Company, 4 at 239; Royal Dutch, 1 at 88½; Pan American, ¾ at 70¾; U. S. Steel, ¾ at 96¾; Crucible Steel, ¾ at 85¾; Midvale Steel, ¾ at 54¾; American Hyde and Leather preferred, 1¼ at 81¾; Marine preferred, ¾ at 104; Reading, ¾ at 78¾; Southern Pacific, 1 at 99¾; Tobacco Products, 1 at 87¾, and Studebaker, ¾ at 54¾.

The impression gained by many who judged yesterday's business was that the greater buying was on shorts and for one other reason except hurried efforts by speculative interests on the bear side of the market, although this was not confirmed by any developments after the end of the day. There was a little return of long-viewed stocks, but these returns were offset by new looks, having the nature of return appeal in amount and of not much importance as a real market factor.

The action of the market seems to suggest that liquidation has practically ceased and that conditions favorable the buyer may not continue so favorable as in recent days. There appears to be easy and complete absorption of selling, there is some evidence of buying by the professional speculators, but as yet accumulation of stocks by large interests does not seem to have begun.

There was also general comment by some that the market did not hold good its early advance after two days' returns and when the reaction came in the late trading one could not see any suggestion that outside following of high levels had been reached.

READJUST CAPITALIZATION.

There was some British talk on both the Pacific Coast and in Pittsburgh and also Industrial Alcohol. The American Steel Foundries in connection with arrangements to put the plan into effect by which the capitalization of the company can be increased. The calls for the exchange of new stock on a basis of three-fifths for the present common shares, the increased stock to be placed on a 4 per cent. basis. It is understood details of the plan will be given out at the time the annual meeting is held in March.

Based on knowledge of the assets of both the Distillers and Industrial Alcohol companies and distribution with the closing of war accounts, there is a great deal of bullish talk.

CALLS FOR PROTECTION FOR POTASH INDUSTRY

Washington, Feb. 14.—Legislation proposed by Senator Henderson of Nevada, regulating potash imports and fixing a licensing system, was indorsed before the Senate Mines Committee by the Interior Department.

Van H. Manning, chief of the Bureau of Mines, Agricultural Department, and Senator Henderson read a letter from Secretary Lane, urging that potash be the first fish could be devised to safeguard domestic producers until the industry fully developed.

H. S. Gale of the geological survey told the committee that the present licensing period, fixed at five years, should be extended to five years to permit a fair test.

JUSTIFIES FLAT RATE FOR ALL FREIGHT

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 14.—A flat rate of 12 cents per cwt. on milk, plus $16 terminal charges per cwt. is a just and undiscriminating freight rate, according to interstate commerce commissioner Robert W. Woolley, in a statement submitted today to the Senate committee on interstate commerce in amplification of his assertion that "the rate question is not an academic one" made some time ago to the committee.

He supported his statement with an elaborate table showing how he arrived at the conclusion, and urged adoption of Woolley's plan of Federal control of the roads for five years to work out real railroad legislation. Woolley takes the position that our present system is "based on the application of small towns and communities without representation" and that freight rates go to the very heart of our economic life.

"It is not the function of transportation agencies to equalize fortune opportunities," he declared, "nevertheless, we find that modified doctrine running through the rate practices. Rates are used as a club up in specific defiance of the constitution, which provides that no preference shall be given to any regulation of commerce to the ports of one State to those of another."

"There would be no longer discriminations of rates and practices which operate as a like charge to all shippers of its commodities for a given unit of service."

URGES COTTON EXPORTS FOR ALL COUNTRIES

Washington, Feb. 14.—Removal of all restrictions against the free export of cotton to all countries, not only to enemy, but also to neutral countries, was demanded in the Senate by Senator Hardwick of Georgia, who presenting a resolution adopted by Georgia cotton planters urging more rigid regulation by Congress of the cotton exchanges.

He said the result of export embargoes had been that British spinners had largely controlled the prices of cotton and its movement.

Representative Heflin of Alabama introduced a resolution authorizing the President to close cotton exchanges if they were found to cause "unjust market manipulation."

ALAN DINEHART, who has a leading role in "The Crowded Hour" at the Park Square Theatre.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES VOTE FOR U. S. OWNERSHIP

Washington, Feb. 14.—As a result of a referendum vote just taken by the fourteen labor organizations operating the railroads and representing from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 employes, an almost unanimous vote has been returned in favor of government ownership.

"While the complete poll has not been fully tabulated," said John Scott, secretary and treasurer of the railroad employes' department of the A. F. of L., "it is virtually unanimous, and the votes yet to be heard from could not in any material degree change the result."

REALISM OFTEN MISTAKEN ON THE STAGE

By FRED J. McISAAC.

If you have seen "The Crowded Hour" you haven't forgotten the thrilling moment in the third act when the exchange girl (telephone operator) is trying frantically to reach her lover, heading blindly into a German trap in one direction, and striving to locate a missing division of French troops somewhere else at one and the same time.

Finally she gives her lover the "go by" and devotes all her time to saving the division, which she succeeds in doing.

Well, at that, enthralling moment when the audience is feeling sorry for poor Jack, our hero is sitting comfortably in his dressing room undisturbed by the stage, talking to me. At least he was at the matinee Wednesday.

Alan Dinehart is a fine, soldierly looking chap in his captain's uniform. We were talking at that moment about the difference between theatrical and real realism.

"What most people think is realism is the worst kind of theatricalism, and what most folks at the theatrical is often the realest sort of realism," he said.

"In the next act I arrive after a terrible experience with the Boche. I have been ten days under fire, living in mud holes, going without sleep, covered with scratches and generally the victim of a rough time.

"I should come on in a horrible mud-covered uniform, torn into tatters. I should be unshaven and unshorn, my eyes bloodshot, my hands and face black with dirt.

"That would be realism. When the play was in rehearsal I talked it over with Edgar Selwyn, one of the authors, and the producer.

"'It won't do,' he said. 'That's just how you would actually appear, but on the other hand you would be so disreputable that the audience would forget you were a hero and fail to sympathize with the girl who hates to give you up.'

"Besides your tramplike appearance might cause a laugh from some thoughtless person, and a laugh just at this moment would spoil the show.

"'Well, what shall I do?' I demanded.

"'Just suggest those things. A red cut on your forehead and a few wrinkled uniform with a little dust on it will do well enough. If people criticise you at all they will say, "Oh, maybe he stopped at the Red Cross for a bath and a shave."'

"For a time I used the cut on my forehead, but I found that people argued about that. Some said it actually looked like a cut and some thought it looked like red paint. So I settled the argument by cutting that out. It's a funny game, the show business."

"The Dinehart family seem to be in it pretty deep."

The actor laughed heartily. "I should say we are. Peggy Lawrence parts from me forever every evening and two matinees a week, but when the curtain falls she grabs me by the arm and we hasten home to see our baby. For Miss Dyer, who is now playing Peggy, is Mrs. Dinehart, you know. Our kid is only eleven months old, but he is a wonder."

This might have been a cue, for there came a knock at the door and when Dinehart opened it, there was Alan, Jr., cooing in a baby carriage, for the nurse had brought him to the theatre to see his parents.

The baby now became the centre of attraction, and actors and actresses came popping out of dressing rooms and crowding around. Some of them chattered French at Baby Alan and some English, but the youngster seemed to understand them equally well.

It happened that a Sunday newspaper had used a full page picture of the baby a week or so before. The proud father declared that the kid would recognize his own picture and held it in front of the camera for inspection.

Instantly the baby began to laugh and crowded out two tiny pews for the publicity.

"Guess he's going to be an actor," said his father.

HOOD & SONS HAVE PLACE FOR THEIR WAR HEROES

"We have given 258 of our men to the great war. At one time they were leaving here so fast that we could hardly operate our routes." We did it, however, and fifty-three of our men have returned. There is a place with us for every one who went into the service, and they can't come back too soon," said Charles H. Hood, president of H. P. Hood & Sons Milk Company, so spoke at the eleventh annual banquet of the Mutual Benefit Association of that concern in Odd Fellows Hall, Tremont and Berkeley streets. He could predicted a greater volume of business for the company, and declared it would branch out greater than ever, now that the war was over. H. D. Collins, president of the association, was toastmaster. More than 250 members attended, many in uniform. The total membership is 344, according to the report of the secretary. Since the start it has paid out 132,496 in sick and death claims.

John Hancock
MUTUAL
LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
OF BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

Summarized Report for Year Ending December 31, 1918

FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR OF BUSINESS

War and Influenza Death Claims

The Company paid a total of $16,046,054.83 for death claims, including approximately $1,200,000.00 for death claims in the war on Army and Navy men, and $4,000,000.00 for claims caused by epidemic influenza.

The Company's resources were adequate for all demands, and it has not been necessary to increase the cost for 1919, either to old or new policy-holders.

War Co-operation

The Company subscribed for $10,000,000.00 Liberty Bonds, in addition to $3,502,400.00 allotted to it in 1917.

Its agency forces sold to the public over $15,000,000.00 of Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps, and also assisted the Government by soliciting the soldiers and sailors to take the Government War Risk Insurance.

The Company, as a part of its public duty, issued a large amount of insurance on the Army and Navy forces during the entire period of the war.

The great bulk of the Company's war death claims on the Army and Naval forces was from pre-war policies free of war restrictions.

Such claims on policies subject to extra war-hazard premiums issued during the war, were found to be relatively few. These policies contained agreement for the return of unused extra premiums.

For these reasons, it was deemed equitable upon signing of the armistice, to return in full all such extra premiums, and to pay in full all death claims where liability had ceased owing to non-payment of the extra charge.

In the war and epidemic emergencies this Company thus joined in the service to the community given by the Life Insurance Companies of our Country.

Condition December 31, 1918

The Company closed the year in the following condition:

Assets (Massachusetts standard)	$171,313,630.84
Liabilities	166,309,720.52
Reserve for Contingencies	5,003,910.32
Outstanding Insurance	1,061,117,249.00
New Insurance Paid-for (Largest in Company's history)	162,458,913.00

The figures show a very satisfactory condition, both as to financial strength and rate of progress in growth.

Organization

The Company, like all mutual companies, is not a profit-making institution, but is conducted solely for the life insurance protection of its members.

It has 3,384,512 policies in force, insuring approximately 2,500,000 persons.

Its office and agency forces total over 7,000 persons.

Of these, 806 went into war service. They were assured of their positions, or those equally as good, upon return to the Company. All who have applied so far have been welcomed back. There have been 40 casualties—13 gave up their lives and 27 were wounded.

F. ARCHER, JR., NOTED SHOT, OUT OF DANGER

Frank Archer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Archer of No. 762 Washington street, Brookline, who has been dangerously ill with pneumonia at the home of his parents, is now out of danger, though he is still very weak. Archer was in fifteen years of age and attending preparatory school, is said to be the best amateur shot in the State for his age, and is very well known by local enthusiasts of hunting, trifling and fishing. Despite his splendid physical condition this is his second attack of influenza, having been first stricken in September.

Here's a Soldiers', Sailors' and Marines' Editorial

Read It, Cut It Out, and Send It to Your Congressman. It May Do Him Good

"To convince others," said the Greek teacher of oratory, "be yourself convinced."

Here is a letter from a soldier to the editor, and the letter he sends to the congressman.

Read both the letters. Then, if you agree with the soldier, who is convincing, because he himself is convinced, sign the petition printed at the end, get some of your friends to sign it, and send the whole thing to your congressman and ask him to show it around.

Here is the soldier's letter to the editor:

Editor Boston American.

Dear Sir—Having returned among the wounded from France, I want to extend my undying thanks for the assistance you are rendering us soldiers in your campaign for six months' pay.

After nine months' active service in Flanders and France I am some again and honorably discharged, and I can tell you plenty of stories about the gallantry of the men in the Twenty-seventh Division during the occupation of Mt. Kemmel and the smashing of the Hindenburg line.

To aid your campaign I permit you to place these two letters—they are open letters—where Mr. Congressman can see them. Take a photograph of them and let him see that they are original.

Thankfully yours,
JAMES J. DOWNING.
975 Jefferson ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Here's the same soldier's letter to "Mr. Congressman," and, as the soldier would say, "There is pep in it."

Mr. Congressman:

You asked us to answer the call to the colors. We answered.
You asked us to free starving Belgium. We freed her.
You asked us to rescue France from the tyrant. We rescued her.
You asked us to cheer up Italy. We cheered her.
You asked us to uphold Old Glory. We did it.
You asked us to risk everything. We risked it.
You asked the people to buy bonds promptly. They did it.
You asked the girls to be Red Cross nurses. They did it.
We ask you, Mr. Congressman, to help us. Have you done it?
We saved your job by winning the war. Will you deny it?
We protected YOUR home and life. Will you deny it?
We sacrificed our lives and blood at your request. Didn't we?
Mr. Congressman, we acted promptly. Will you?
Mr. Congressman, you may forget us now. We never forget.
Mr. Congressman, you may need us millions again. Remember that.
Mr. Congressman, we saved you.
Is it going to be SIX MONTHS' PAY, or TO HELL WITH US?
JAMES J. DOWNING.

Petition to the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy to Send Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Home With Six Months' Pay

Sign this petition, get your friends to sign it, and forward it to the Boston American, 80 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

To the Honorable Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War:
To the Honorable Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy:

The undersigned respectfully urge you to return to their homes as soon as possible the soldiers, sailors and marines who have accomplished so brilliantly every object America had in the war.

We urge, also, that you obtain the necessary authority to pay these men their wages for six months, or for some sufficient period after their discharge from the army or navy until they can obtain useful and remunerative employment.

We urge this as an act of simple justice by a great nation to its heroes.

(Signed)

The Salamander and Seven Millions---

Copyright, 1918, Star Company

The five-toed Salamander—from which you inherit the five fingers on your hand—walked millions of years ago under big fern trees in the carboniferous era.

The fern pollen falling on his back formed the coal beds and oil wells. You would have surprised that salamander if you had told him what would be done with the coal oil and gasoline to come from the falling pollen.

It drives millions of automobiles and helps fly machines to kill men. A man left seven millions to hospitals and universities to do GOOD, and other millions to heirs to help them be foolish.

All those millions came from oil, from the pollen of those fern trees.

The salamander if he came back would be surprised. YOU would be surprised if you could come back in a few million or even a few thousand years and observe the changes.

Transforming fern tree pollen into fuel for flying machines and millions for universities is no more remarkable than things that men are going to do.

They will make justice, charity, perpetual peace, an end of poverty and anxiety out of the miserable thing that we call civilization.

Let us hope that at death we leave this earth only for a little time, then come back again—to see the improvements.

THE NEIGHBORS' CHILDREN AND YOUR OWN

Do you endeavor to get information in regard to the home life of your neighbors and friends from the children who frequent your home?

Ever think how despicable this is?

How would you like to have your own home matters discussed by busy-bodies?

And when it comes to discreditable things, your own family could furnish plenty of material for gossip if the inmost facts were told.

This does not mean that your family is better or worse than the next.

Every one makes mistakes one time or another, and every family is free to discuss each member of the family at home.

JUST FOR lack of sleep.

I THANK you.

They Gave Their All

By Miss Bessie Edwards

(The following poem, "They Gave Their All," was written by Miss Bessie Edwards, only daughter of Major-General Clarence R Edwards, commanding the Northeastern Department, a few weeks before she died of influenza. She was doing her bit at Camp Meade Washington, when the poem was written.)

A BABY boy, with smiling face,
A mother watching with tender grace;

A sturdy child with curly hair,
Playing happily without a care;

A young boy ready to do and dare,
And with the others life's burdens share;

A call for help from his native land,
The boy with others takes his stand;

The mother's smile through her broken heart;
The father's words, "He'll do his part."

The silence through the weeks that pass,
The dreaded news that comes at last;

The news that's hardest to impart—
He lost his life, but he did his part.

The broken hearts for the young life done,
Though they smilingly cheer other mothers' sons.

They did their part, and 'twas nobly done;
They gave their all—their only son.

Letters to the Editor

Beer and Light Wines

Editor Boston American:

I see no reason why light wines and beer cannot continue to be made and sold. I cannot see why some people are so anxious to abolish all kinds of liquor. In my opinion whiskey, gin, brandy and the like should be put under the same ban as morphine and such drugs, and should not be obtainable except by a doctor's prescription. But I do think that the laborer should not be deprived of his glass of beer. The government has placed a great revenue on liquors, then if the entire sale of liquors is prohibited this money, which is needed to help defray the expenses of the government, will have to be raised in some other manner, and what is more natural not that the property owners' taxes be raised. The only people this will affect is the poor laborer again, who will have to pay more rent so that his landlord can meet the increased taxes. Men can get intoxicated on beer and wines, yes, but it does not make the brutes that whiskey and the like do. Finally, if the sale of all liquor is prohibited, I fear that those men who have been accustomed to drinking will have recourse to the making of their own drinks from such things as were mentioned in your Monday evening's paper, which will cause just as much sorrow.

FAIR PLAY.

As the Nurse Sees It

Editor Boston American:

Why are so many people stricken with influenza? is asked over and over. For the last six years I have found that people do not have enough nourishing food. Food which is necessary cannot be bought by many because of the high prices. A person starts with a slight cold, then a fever sets in because the blood is so poor, and, finally, the result is influenza. For the last six years I have found that there is not blood enough in the body of some people to have the feet supplied with the amount. If the person had enough vitality, he would have something to build upon and death would not ensue.

It is the young you say that die of influenza. Just so, it is youth that needs good nourishing food and plenty of it, if it is to thrive.

SQUARE DEAL TO DAUGHTER DEMANDS A TIDY HOME

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

IT must be by some inscrutable law of opposites that a mother with no more sense of order or system and method than a hen crossing the road very often has a daughter who is the pink of neatness, and who automatically has a place for everything and everything in its place. And on the other hand, we frequently hear the mother who cannot endure to see a thread awry wail over the incorrigible carelessness of a daughter who is always at loose ends.

"I have spent my life trying to train her in the way she should go," the orderly mother will tell you; "and yet she no sooner puts her hair up than it begins to straggle down, her clothes always seem to need a stitch in time, she sheds buttons and hairpins as she walks.

"She never picks a thing up and puts it down in the same place. She cannot be in a room ten minutes without it looking as if a cyclone had stuck it, and she would rather throw her clothes over a chair or on the floor than to hang them up properly."

And two persons like this, representing the opposite poles, never succeed in really understanding and sympathizing with each other. The fastidiously neat are always worried and annoyed by the careless. The careless are irritated by what seems to them the absurd fussiness of the fastidiously neat.

One Girl's Plaint

As an example in point, I have received this very well written letter:

"Dear Mrs. Woodrow—Won't you please write a word of advice and cheer to the children whose parents are not giving them a square deal? We hear so frequently and so disparagingly of the children who are ashamed of their parents and who try to 'put on airs.' Cannot a word be said in defence of some of these children? Because a mother is a mother, does this mean that she should be continually scolded and never criticised, regardless of each faults as shiftlessness and uncleanliness?

"I am a girl eighteen and have no one to confide in, as I am afraid that any one to whom I might tell my troubles would consider me a very undutiful and ungrateful daughter. Whenever I ask any of my young friends to the house in the evening it is necessary for me to hurry home and put the house in order as best I can, since mother does not seem either to know how to keep the place in order or care enough about it to do so, although the house is practically new and so are most of the furnishings, some of which I have paid for out of my own earnings.

"It is very humiliating for me to have a friend drop in unexpectedly in the evening and find the place topsy-turvy. I am not a crank on order, but don't you think a working girl is at least entitled to a clean, wholesome place to rest after her day's work? I am willing, and have done a great deal in my home in my spare time, but through lack of system in housekeeping, what little I do does not show for anything very long after it is done.

"What can I do? I do not seem able to wake my mother up.

"Sincerely yours, L. M."

The situation as you put it, dear L. M., does seem a hard one, because we are after all the creatures of our environment, and our surroundings do have a great effect upon our characters and dispositions. If one is in a continual state of depression over an ill-kept, badly-managed home, it is sooner or later certain to affect one's health, and therefore one's work.

Hear Her Side of It

You, my dear, are evidently a clever, capable girl, young and ambitious and determined to get the best out of life. You naturally feel that you are doing your part and perhaps a little more, and you see no reason why your mother should not do hers.

But perhaps you defeat your own ends by being fretful and irritable with her. Perhaps your arguments end in quarrels.

If this is the case, why not try another method? Sit down and have a good-humored affectionate talk with your mother. Get her side of the question.

If she is one of the gadding kind, who lets the house go at sixes and sevens because she prefers to spend most of her time away from it, then point out to her as tactfully as possible that you are giving up a number of hours a day to your work, and that since the care of the house is her work it is only fair that she should give it the requisite time and attention.

Important is the meeting at Washington of leading representatives of the Catholic church to discuss after-the-war reconstruction matters. Continuation of good wages, minimum wage schedules, no child labor, as little work for women as possible, with equal pay for women that do work, are some of the recommendations made by Bishops Muldoon of Illinois; Hayes of New York, Schrembs of Ohio and Russell of South Carolina. They are important, particularly because they come from a source to which politicians will pay attention.

And they are, above all, important because they recognize the fact that the way to cure dissatisfaction is to recognize it and deal with it, not seeking to strangle, ignore or beat it down.

James Kendall of Texas is dead. They took him from the Ritz-Carlton in New York to the hospital to die when he was seen giving twenty-dollar bills to private soldiers in uniform.

Uncle Sam thus far shows no signs of similar insanity. Private soldiers and officers taken from their homes, their jobs and ready to be shot, if necessary, have not been overwhelmed with His financial generosity.

Somebody has suggested in the War Department that the government give each soldier THIRTY dollars when he leaves the army. Someone in Congress suggests SIXTY dollars. The convict usually leaves his prison with as much money as that, and a new civilian suit given to him by the State in addition. Couldn't the government do better for men leaving the army than prisons do for released convicts?

The least would be for every man released from the army six months' full pay, in six monthly instalments. That would give him time to look about for another job, without trying to crowd out other workers, and it would avoid glutting the labor market.

To pay this to the soldiers would take a small bite from the twenty thousand million dollars that the country is to raise this Spring.

Mr. Glass, Secretary of the Treasury, with the hard job on his hands, visits New York tomorrow to explain and hear suggestions for helping in the coming bond issue.

Here is the writer's suggestion:

Announce publicly that part of the money will be used to give all the soldiers coming out of the army six months' full pay—then watch the public buy bonds, with the soldiers themselves for the best possible bond salesmen.

A polite suggestion to our respectable Stock Exchange: Why not list Italian government bonds, and thus prove financial friendship for Italy?

The Italian 1,000 lire bond, as good as gold, sells for $144. It should sell for $193 at the present rate of exchange, and is worth it.

If the Stock Exchange could afford to list and encourage dealings in Russian bonds, which are the latest financial joke, certainly the Stock Exchange might list the government bonds of Italy, a faithful, loyal friend of this country, one that had sent us tens of thousands of the most valuable workers that ever came to America.

There is another attempt to murder Lenine, if the news from Russia is true, which it probably isn't. That is a poor way to try to settle the Russian problem.

Murder doesn't settle anything, excepting occasionally a judicial killing, following a fair trial.

There is a plan to pay the world's debt with a world-wide lottery. It has been suggested to President Wilson by Luzzatti, formerly Premier of Italy, and will receive polite consideration. Luzzatti says that of 700,000,000 people on earth, 300,000,000 would buy tickets in the lottery, which would have one very large sum. Each of the 300,000,000 would buy on an average $200 worth of tickets. That makes sixty thousand million dollars. The prizes would amount to only ten million dollars and the sixty billions would be raised at an expense of one-sixtieth of .1 per cent., practically nothing.

Undoubtedly many would buy tickets in a lottery offering a first prize of five millions, two second prizes of one million each, and many prizes of a hundred thousand. Such rewards would be only petty cash to many prosperous Americans. But they would interest the crowd.

That, however, would be a bad way to raise money. To try to pay your debts, personal or national, by stimulating gambling is as unwise as trying to settle your political problems through assassination.

Even if the lottery did bring in sixty thousand millions, it would leave big bills unpaid. For Secretary Baker announces just now, in a speech to women, that the total cost of the war is about one hundred and ninety-three thousand millions, which is more than a hundred dollars for every man, woman and child on the earth, including the sore-eyed, fly-infested children on the Ganges and the Nile.
